Why Democracy? Why Capitalism? Why the West?

Presented by: Paul Warwick

Monday, February 6
 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.
 Valle Verde Social Room
 900 Calle de los Amigos

This unique course will examine the development of the modern world through the prism of one of its key sources, the city-state. It will show that the survival of city-states in a world dominated by much more powerful kingdoms and empires was critical to the emergence of democracy and capitalism in Europe and subsequently to Europe's rise in power and wealth relative to other regions of the world.

In the course of this excursion through history, we shall see why the roots of Western democracy can be traced to the city-states of ancient Greece, why the Renaissance that marked an end of the middle ages in Europe was centered on the city-states of northern Italy, and perhaps most crucially, why the values, custom and practices of these city-states survived when they themselves did not.

Also explored will be how representative government and capitalism came to be linked in city-states and how the key elements of this "minority" form of political and economic organization came to prevail, first in the Western World and then beyond it.
